

ACTION IS DEMANDED ON GAS RATES

Today Four Welfare Agencies Plan 3-Day Drive

Spain's Dangerous Plight. Installment Plan Babies. Too Much Greek, Latin. A Useful Prince.

By ARTHUR BRISHANE Copyright, 1931, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

CONDITIONS IN SPAIN grow worse day by day. The number of churches fired by mobs reached 21, with 10 others wrecked. Fifty thousand members of religious orders have been compelled to flee. It is reported that Sisters of Charity have been beaten in the streets of Madrid.

The President of the Spanish republic, who realizes that no government can stand under such abominable conditions holds Communists and Royalists responsible, declaring that the disorder was created by enemies of the republic.

While Spain is torn, as Mexico was recently, by religious strife and hatred, the authorities of Prussia have signed a "contract" or treaty with the former state Lutheran church, similar to that signed in 1929 with the Catholic church.

The Lutherans are content with this new arrangement and religious discontent, open or secret, will cease.

A nation is fortunate that can progress free from religious difficulties. And the foundation of such freedom is absolute separation of church and state in all their functions.

WHILE MANY discuss birth control, pro and con, Chicago wisely undertakes to encourage births, sound babies and safe mothers.

The total hospital cost of a new baby under the Chicago installment plan at the Presbyterian hospital will be $45.

Installment plan babies will be taken care of. The total charge of $45 will include 10 days in the hospital and monthly "pre-natal" visits to the clinic.

Other cities might imitate that.

YALE DECIDES that Greek and Latin are not necessary. Students are permitted to substitute classics in civilization courses for dead languages, a sound decision. Time devoted to Greek and Latin grammar is time wasted.

One student in 100,000 knows Greek tragedies.

In the whole United States there are probably not 10 men who know Greek thoroughly, and they don't really know it, or now it was pronounced, or accentuated.

Every student should know a certain number of Greek and Latin words and their meaning. Some teacher of English should prepare a list of a few hundred Greek and Latin words which every boy that gets out of college should know, for instance, that "anthropos" means "man," that "logos" means "the discourse" or "the word."

Everybody should be taught the part that Greek and Latin play in our language, the derivations of "phonograph," "telephone," "microphone," etc.

All that is needed of Greek or Latin could be learned by an intelligent boy in one week.

GREAT BRITAIN has a valuable asset in the young Prince of Wales, hard worker, simple, democratic, realizing that everybody should do his share and setting the example.

Referring to American methods, he said more than a year ago: "We must learn to adopt, adapt and improve." Yesterday he told British business men that they must copy American sales and advertising methods if they wanted

Troops Mobilized At Madrid to Prevent Raid On Bank of Spain

Strongest Display of Military Power Capital Has Seen in Years is Prompted by Communistic Reports.

MADRID, May 13.—Moving swiftly on reports that Communists planned a raid on the bank of Spain, the government mobilized troops and posted them about the bank building this morning in the strongest display of military power Madrid has seen in years.

Galloping toward the center of the city from the barracks where they had been held ready since Sunday, cavalrymen surrounded the block in which the bank stands, guiding their horses among the gathering crowd which was to have staged a demonstration at noon.

Unconfirmed reports said communists had organized the demonstration and had planned to raid the bank while the main body of the crowd engaged the police.

BLAST BLAMED

200 Persons in Tokio Stampede; Doors Blocked.

By International News Service. TOKIO, May 13.—Sixteen persons, most of them women and children, lost their lives today when fire destroyed a local motion picture theater and spread to 16 adjoining houses leveling them to the ground.

Scores were reported injured, 30 seriously.

The fire resulted from explosion of a gasoline tank in the projection room of the cinema theater. The 200 persons comprising the audience stampeded for the exits at the sound of the blast. A few managed to reach safety, but most of them were trapped in the theater when the doors became blocked by the press of humanity.

Heroic work by fire fighters and volunteer helpers prevented a greater loss of life. Survivors of the disaster were hauled to safety through windows while firemen battled the blaze from the roof.

Fanned by a stiff northeast wind, the flames spread rapidly and soon were out of control. Residents of houses nearby fled to the streets in panic and stood helplessly by while the fire reduced their homes and possessions to ashes.

BURGLAR FLEES AS POLICEMEN FIRE 11 SHOTS

Man Abandons Loot In Bellevue Oil Station.

Amid a fusillade of 11 shots fired by police who surprised him in the act of looting the Bellevue filling station in West Eighth street, an unidentified burglar escaped along West Fourth street extension toward the Ohio river bank at 2 a. m. today.

Three suspects later arrested, were released after establishing alibi. Police believe the burglar was wounded in the getaway but a check-up of the city hospital and physicians' offices showed no one had applied for treatment.

Charles Sheline, who lives in West Eighth street near the filling station, saw the man in the station and telephoned police headquarters. Fireman Milton Polley, on duty at the police station, responded in the motor patrol, picking up Patrolman Elwyn G. Shenkel and C. C. Smith and Merchants' Police Emmett Blake in the Diamond.

As the police squad approached, the burglar fled with shots falling at his heels. Police searched along the river bank from Market street to Jethro and also in the city dump near the flint mill without finding a trace of the suspect.

In the oil station the police found a sack in which the culprit had placed six cartons and 28 packages of cigarettes, one box of cigars and 17 cans of tobacco, which had been abandoned by the man as he fled. Twelve pennies were also taken from the cash register.

The suspect had entered the station by demolishing the lock on the outside door and jimmying the lock on the office door.

CITY COUNCIL DELAY IS HIT BY CONSUMERS

Attorney J. C. Hanley Sends Letter to Lawmakers.

OPPOSE "STEP-UP"

Appeal May be Made To State Utilities Board.

Marking a second demand within three months, the Gas Consumers' League of East Liverpool, through Attorney J. C. Hanley, today called upon the city council to enact an ordinance reducing domestic gas rates now charged by the Manufacturers' Light & Heat company.

Declaring that "nothing has been done in reference to formulating a new franchise" since his clients appealed early in the year, and "in the meantime your constituents have been required to pay the iniquitous 'step up rate,' Hanley hinted the question will be referred to the state utilities commission unless the lawmakers act. "You probably have a good reason for delaying this matter but your dilatory action has cost the gas consumers of the city many hundreds of extra dollars," Hanley says in his letter to council.

Authority to Act Cited. The letter points out that council has authority to act under the general code of Ohio, and if the gas company is not satisfied with the franchise it has the right to appeal to the utilities commission.

Domestic gas consumers here now pay $1 for the first thousand cubic feet and then a "step rate" ranging from 50 to 70 cents a thousand feet is effective.

The Consumers' league suggests the maximum rate should not exceed 75 cents for the first thousand cubic feet and 55 cents for each thousand cubic feet thereafter with a requirement of a minimum pressure of eight ounces and minimum heat units of 1,100 B. T. U. and that the franchise should be at least for a period of five years.

Text of Letter.

Hanley's letter to council follows: "Something over three months ago in behalf of my clients, the Gas Consumers' League of East Liverpool, I wrote you in regard to the passing of a franchise fixing the rates and quality of natural gas supplied to local consumers. Judging from public reports nothing whatsoever has been done by you in reference to formulating a franchise on this matter.

"In the meantime your constituents have still been required to pay the iniquitous 'step up rate' charged by the gas company. You probably have a good reason for delaying this matter but your dilatory action has cost the gas consumers of the city many hundreds of extra dollars. I feel that it is your duty as representatives of the public to take action in this matter rather than to require a group of citizens at their own expense to bring the matter before the Public Utilities Commission in order to secure a just and proper rate.

Suggests Five-Year Pact. "You have full authority under Sections 3982 and 6144 of the general code of Ohio to regulate the rate and quality of gas furnished consumers within the limits of the city. If the gas company be not satisfied with the franchise passed by you it has the right to appeal to the public utilities commission.

"The gas consumers' league suggests that the franchise should not exceed a maximum rate of seventy-five cents (75c) for the first thousand feet and fifty-five cents (55c) for each thousand feet thereafter with a requirement of a minimum pressure of eight ounces and minimum heat units of 1,100 B. T. U. and that the franchise should be at least for the period of five years. "Trusting that you will give this matter your immediate attention and feeling that you would be rendering a great public service in so doing, I am,

"Respectfully yours,

"J. C. HANLEY."

NEW BUICK EIGHTS

... an Owner Service Policy making generous provision for owner satisfaction

Only a Buick Dealer can give Buick Service

The faith of men and women in the Buick car becomes even more deeply rooted when they realize how generously Buick provides for owner satisfaction.

When you buy a new Buick Eight, your dealer hands you a written Owner Service Policy. It specifies such advantages as free replacement of parts, with no charge for labor, under the terms of a very liberal warranty—and free inspection and adjustment after 500 miles and after 1500 miles.

You may change your residence, or tour anywhere in the U. S. or Canada, and still share these benefits through the nearest Buick dealer.

This policy is not only your guarantee of satisfaction, but also an assurance of Buick's basic excellence. The new Buick Eight is, in fact, so sound and good that it wins more than 50 out of every 100 sales of the 14 eights in its price class.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list price when comparing motor car values.

HEN CARES FOR KITTEN LITTER

By The United Press.
CANON CITY, Colo.—A Canon City tabby cat is enjoying the luxury of a nursemaid for her kittens. The kittens were born in an abandoned hen's nest. When the hen discovered the new occupants of the nest, she flew in, fluffed out her wings and began to mother the kittens. Oddly enough, when the mother cat was in the nest, the obliging biddy stretched her wings sufficiently to include her.

The owners of the pets in an experimental mood, moved the cat and her babies to another building. The hen soon discovered her charges and resumed her supervision.

Welcome, Dental Society Members

East Liverpool Thursday will entertain the members of the Cordon Palmer Dental society, composed of dentists practicing in Columbiana, Mahoning and Trumbull counties, who will hold forenoon and afternoon business sessions and attend a Kiwanis luncheon at noon and a dinner at night.

The Ceramic City was selected for the spring meeting because it is the home of the society's president, Dr. Joseph T. Williamson, long active in the organization, who will be succeeded by Dr. C. M. White of Warren when the fall session convenes.

One hundred dentists will hear discussions of topics pertaining to their profession by Dr. W. W. Hurst of Western Reserve university, Dr. Norman Demmer of Cleveland and Dr. Norman Souder of the bureau of standards at Washington, D. C.

East Liverpool, which Tuesday entertained two Pittsburgh groups consisting of 100 members of the American Ceramic society and 25 seniors in the commercial engineering class of Carnegie Institute of Technology, welcomes the visiting dentists and hopes their stay will be enjoyable.

Honest Debts

Despite efforts to keep discussion of war debts quiet during the recent meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce in Washington, the subject was mentioned frequently. The cancellationist group was in the fore, of course.

When United States credit was placed at the disposal of the allies during the World war many things that now seem strange were happening. Men were slaughtering each other and believing themselves to be helping civilization. Vast sums of money were being squandered. Everything was forgotten in the terrible rage that blinds hostile nations.

All that is forgotten now. Former enemies are working side by side and praising each other. The trucks, tanks, airplanes, guns and shells have been destroyed. Nations are calm again, and ashamed of their former hysteria. Fiscal systems have been severely shaken and not completely restored, but the war seems to have happened a long time ago.

Enter the cancellationist, who reasons that because all else has been forgotten war debts owing the United States should be forgotten too. It is calling for debtor nations to pay for a war which they wish to forget; it is hard for them to find money to pay at all, he says. Further, the United States, which happens to have more money than its debtors, is playing Shylock to an unfortunate group of nations which solicited its help and money in their hour of need. The group claims an effect on world trade conditions from payment of the debts, the cancellationist recites.

Argument of such character is futile and foolish. Europe has had its dance and the piper must be paid. The United States has no wish to be haxed, but without its intervention and resources the map of the European continent might look different today.

If the debtor nations can pay their honest debts they should pay them without asking for cancellation. A moratorium has been provided to tide hard-pressed nations over depression, but no nation has yet had occasion to invoke it, which is fair proof that the payments haven't been intolerable. If American's debtors imagine that this nation should subsidize world trade by cancelling payments due it they are entertaining a queer idea.

Graduation Time.

This is the time of the year that hopeful members of graduating classes begin to peek out into the world they soon will enter. One peek, frequently, is enough to make them long for more education or to wish they had made more of their opportunities.

Depression, of course, had a marked effect on the prospective chances of the graduate to place himself satisfactorily. A measure of that effect may be seen in the number of applications to the federal civil service commission for the right to participate in the spring schedule of civil service examination.

Almost twice as many college-trained people have applied to take the examination for junior chemist as applied last year. Similar increases are shown in the number of applications for examinations as junior engineers, etymologists, foresters, range examiners, marketing specialists and physicists. No more people will be accepted than usually are. But competition will be many times keener.

It is, perhaps, not strictly accurate to call this turning of college people to the government for jobs an aspect of paternalism, though it seems likely that faith in the government's power to do something for them in their hour of need is a factor in the increased number of applications. But the competitive basis of awarding positions cannot yield. There are just so many jobs to be divided among those best qualified and no more. How thankful taxpayers should be that the "spoils system" is no longer in operation!

First Abolish Franking

When advocates of an increased postal rate present their arguments to the people they have to back against a well-established conviction that the post-office department loses a great deal of money needlessly through the franking privilege. Until that privilege is abolished—until the department shows expenditures clean from unnecessary burdens there will be slight chance of boosting postal rates, no matter how sound the reasons.

Franking was first granted in the United States to soldiers engaged in the revolution. It was a dangerous privilege, and before the half of the 19th century had been extended to include nearly all of officials and members of the public service. The abuse was intolerable, and the privilege was restricted in 1845. Subsequently, it has been granted and taken away, always with the conviction present among the taxpayers that their representatives were "taking care of themselves." Special privileges never are popular in representative government. The whole idea is foreign to Democratic principals.

Frederic A. Tilton, third-assistant postmaster general, has warned of a postal deficit of $140,000,000 at the close of the present fiscal year. Last year's deficit was approximately $95,000,000. Mr. Tilton takes the opportunity to press for an increase in postal and parcel post rates. The matter will come up for hearing before the interstate commerce commission during the latter part of May, he says.

The postoffice department has its problems, beyond a doubt. If it were to seek a discontinuance of the franking privilege it would have to deal with the very people to whom the franking privileges mean the most—the representatives and senators. But until the privilege is denied, arguments for an increased postal rate will get no reception.

Touselheads

The dandelion, by general consent, is one of nature's unpopular children. Towheaded touselhead, it is always showing up where it has no business to be.

But its unpopularity is not the product of malicious intent.

The dandelion (taraxacum officinale in the more serious family circles) is simply too good natured and ready to accommodate itself to any surroundings any time.

It comes early, stays late and is up and doing from sunrise to sunset. It finds a comfortable spot, stretches out its leafy arms and is there to stay. Gardeners curse it, uproot it, and throw it away, but, unless they resort to downright brutality and kill it with oil or heat, it keeps right on flourishing. Quite a commendable quality, this knack of making one's self at home, but one that gets the dandelion into a lot of hot water.

How pleasant it would be to engage in a little real old-fashioned fairy romance with one of these beaming, ubiquitous touselheads as the heroine. Dress her up all in a beautiful saffron-wrapped flower pot and whisk her away in a pumpkin-shell coach to a land where no one ever saw a dandelion before. And if she weren't made queen of the flowers at first sight it would be a sad ending to a plot full of good intentions.

Doing Tricks With the Food Budget

Many in the nation sat up and took notice the other day at the news that Girl Scouts had served dinner to President and Mrs. Hoover and a half dozen guests for 24 cents apiece, or less than $190 for the group.

The bureau of home economics in the department of agriculture is kept busy from one year's end to the next devising ways and means for Americans to boil eggs better, make little nifties out of worn-out rubbers, increase junior's stature by two inches a year, convert spinach into a delicacy, and set a satisfactorily table out of the pin-money fund.

But, with few exceptions, the ingenious schemes leave the public cold, because they smack too strongly of the experimental laboratory. Putting it bluntly, the jobholders have a tendency to stray far from reality in their ambition to serve the citizens. In kindness, it must be admitted they are not wholly at fault, but merely a few years in advance of their time. America hasn't become quite efficient enough yet to snap up their advice.

As a matter of fact, a 24-cent meal is no novelty for the people who would be interested in it. Any one of several million housewives could do tricks with a five-dollar bill in the food markets that would leave the department of home economics muttering to itself and leafing through statistical tables. They learned their lesson years ago in the best school of all—the graduate school of hard knocks and necessity. When they hear about experts in Washington being paid for "discovering" the things they do every day of the year, the privilege of chucking at least one sarcastic chuckle cannot be denied them.

Highlights of Ohio History

THE FORERUNNER OF THE SALOON IN OHIO.

By J. H. Galbraith.

For the Associated Press.

Proof that the tavern was the forerunner of the saloon in Ohio is not the original saloon, as carried in the court records of the state. All taverns maintained bars in the early days, preceding the adoption of the second constitution when the sale of liquors was licensed.

In the town of Belpre, Washington county, Horace Curtis established a tavern and proceeded to operate it without applying for a liquor-selling license. He explained to the license agent that he did not propose to have a bar in his hotel. Apparently the buying of such a license was then universal with tavern proprietors. The agent was insistent and when he found Curtis obstinate, he caused his arrest for alleged violation of the law. In the eye of the law the selling of liquor was part of the business of operating a hotel possibly with many, the chief feature of it.

Curtis was fined in the trial court $10 and costs, but he carried the case on up through the courts to the supreme court of the state, where the crux of the case was—when is a tavern not a tavern, or is a tavern that has no bar really a tavern at all? The question was too much for the court, which at that time consisted of but four members. Two of them, Justices Ebenezer Lane and John C. Wright, held that a tavern need not have a bar, and Curtis kept his tavern. And Joshua Collett that it must be so equipped to meet the requirements.

The court not being able to agree, of course, the judgement of the trial court at Belpre stood, and Curtis was obliged to pay his $10 fine and also to take out a license, then $16 a year. If he wished to continue his tavern. That was in 1831. A few years before this, however, the legislature had passed a law authorizing grocery stores to sell liquors, paying the same license fees that were required of taverns, and those two institutions therefore were the public drinking places until the exclusive saloon came along and took over the business almost entirely.

ALMOST OUT OF CONTROL

New York Day By Day

By O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 13.—European artists cheer our architectural triumphs but boo our statistics. In their opinion they are a mess and not worth a second artistic glance. Some of the most distinguished have said the nearest thing to statuesque splendor is the Washington Arch.

Yet even this in comparison to the Victory Arch in Berlin or the Arc de Triomphe looks runty and scanty. Enemies of Tammany say the grip organization has on the metropolis has spoiled freedom in city planning and shorn it of much beauty.

New York has attained generous building beauty in spite of the throttling, but at the same time it has more civic eyesores than any other large American city. Spots have been worn slick in public parks and beautiful vistas are splattered with debris.

There are no public flower gardens of distinction. Benches along broad thoroughfares are often in a state of dilapidation. Woods sprout along many enticing paths. Little public triangles frequently resemble those spotted paintings on burlesque back drops.

The Metropolitan opera is a hideous and gloomy monstrosity, suggesting one of those abandoned spoke factories out by the water towers. Some of the seats are torture racks. In the center of the city the streets are in a perpetual state of excavating disorder.

Even the Statue of Liberty is in constant need of brightening. It is inspiring only as a symbol. The statue in Greeley square is squat and awkward. Few ever notice it. That is true of Verdic's statue at Broadway and 72d street. And dozens of others.

It is said that when Radio City is finished, the metropolis will have an invigorating relief from its civic atrocities. There will be foot bridges spanning sweeps of flowered landscaping and an overtone of imposing edifice. But this is a private enterprise. Not the city's.

New York's lack of vision in holding its opportunity for beauty is encompassed in a verse called "The New Yorker" by Bert Taylor:

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

WHO has not been to the circus and been thrilled by the elephants, tigers and lions? Our curiosity was aroused by the entrance of the "tallest man in the world," or "the smallest." As youngsters, we went home and dreamed of the giant. His wrists were as large as our legs, and his jaw protruded so that we actually could walk on it.

What are these giants? Why are there dwarfs? There are certain glands in the body which secrete substances having a marked effect on the growth of the body. Any disturbance in one of these glands may be shown by changes in the growth and development of the body.

Of all these glands, the so-called "ductless glands," the "pituitary gland" is of the greatest importance. This particular gland is located in the floor of the brain. It is composed of two parts, an anterior lobe and a posterior lobe. The anterior, or front lobe, influences growth and development and is necessary to life. The posterior, or rear lobe, has marked influence on the reception by the body of the fats and carbohydrates we take in our foods.

A Common Symptom. In giants there is a condition called by the doctors "acromegaly." In this disease, because it really is a disease, there is a disturbance in offer more than we can at present. This is true of other ailments than acromegaly.

ONCE OVER

By J. J. Mundy.

Too Critical?

Instead of trying to get your money's worth when you attend the theater do you permit the parts of the bill that you dislike to spoil your whole enjoyment?

You can recall when certain parts angered or disgusted you to the extent that you cursed throughout the while evening.

To gain relaxed pleasure you must get yourself into a receptive mood.

If you can't overlook the things you dislike and think only of the good acting or the effective scenery or the effect sought, you will have a bad time and go home more tired than when you entered the theater.

You can't expect everything to suit your taste, but you do.

You go in a critical mood and if not satisfied thing the time wasted.

You are in a mood to be bored if moments are a bit dull.

You have no idea how hard the players and the artists who helped put over the production have worked against difficulties.

All you care about is to be so amused that you can forget time and have your particular taste satisfied.

Those near a person of this sort find it a disturbing influence.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

TO consummate the distance between Lisbon and East Liverpool, some 13 miles, and by way of Calcutta, was considered an unusual automobile feat back in 1907 when this distance, in an effort to relay rapidly a court decision to the Pottery City, was negotiated in the then record time of one hour and four minutes.

The feat was additionally outstanding in that it was performed without a single stop and not the suggestion of an accident noted. Then, too, the same car that was used had been taken to Lisbon from East Liverpool the evening before this so-called record run and carefully housed for the night. It left here at 7:30 o'clock that night and reached the county seat at exactly 8:36.

It was said that the four miles between East Liverpool and Calcutta had been made in eight minutes. The automobile was kept in the garage of Charles Hamilton of Lisbon during the night spent in Lisbon. The car was of the then Reo type and was driven by E. E. Kirch.

The trip in it was made in an effort to get to East Liverpool a decision that was rendered on Saturday morning, July 13, 1907, by Probate Judge J. R. Martin a decision that had been brought to set aside the result of a Beal local option election in East Liverpool on Saturday, June 22, of that year.

It so happened that petitions for such an election were signed by 1,792 Pottery City citizens. These were published at the time and took pages to do so. The so-called drys won in that vote by a majority of 289. The Fourth ward of the city in which was expected the greatest strength of the designated wets voted wet by but 47. In fact the fifth precinct of that ward revealed itself dry in the vote by 64.

The First ward loomed dry by 164. The Third ward indicated its dryness by 13 votes, though the third precinct of it led in the dry column by 74. It was a hard-fought election. A reward of $500 was offered for knowledge of illegal voting. One dealer in beverages only was arrested for selling upon election day. He was bound over for a hearing.

THERE were in all 4,294 votes cast in that election. Women at the time did not vote. Some of them, however, spent the entire day in holding prayer services in the First Presbyterian church. The vote for banishment of the selling places totaled 2,294, while 2,005 were satisfied with the prevailing conditions. Under the law there was nothing to do but to close in the time limit designed by the then state law. Then upon a question of legality the effort to stay the result of the plebiscite reached the probate court.

In an effort to get this information of the decision of the judge, which engrossed several thousand words that the record automobile run was made. One of the papers in the city at the time chartered this car. In addition a through line of the old Columbiana County Telephone was utilized for the period that the automobile was making the trip. By it the judge's finding was read into the office here. But when the automobile with the carried copy of the decision arrived the telephone communication was instantly suspended.

The late James N. Hanley, father of Judge Jesse Hanley, was then the clerk of courts of Columbiana county. It is recalled that he was one of those who made the trip in the car to East Liverpool when the decision was brought here. It must be remembered that in those days there were no roadways of the kind now utilized between the two cities. Then the roads had been erected only for the utilization of horse carriages and vehicles.

Automobiles at the time were just beginning to come into their own. They were scarce enough to make a single one of them a thing to be observed and carefully examined as it stood near the curb of any street. And none would think at the time of leaving an automobile outside at night. Indeed, several years thereafter an East Liverpool man drove to one of the clubs in this city and left his car standing just across the street.

Living not a great distance away it later escaped his mind that he had the car out. But he arose early the next morning to drive it into his garage before the other members of the family could josh him about the forgetfulness of which he had been guilty.

THREE years previously, on June 18, 1904, there had been a similar vote in East Liverpool. The wets and the drys clashed and held a warm campaign before the voting. Then a total of 4,007 votes were cast. Of these the wets procured 2,063 and the drys 1,944. Thus the wets led by 119 votes.

Four years before that the question was also voted upon in the city. The election at this time occurred on July 21, 1900, when a total of 3,219 votes were cast by the voters engaging in it. The wets on this occasion led also, 1,912 to 1,307. The lead of the wets thus was 605.

Following the court decision of Judge Martin it became necessary for the saloons in the city to be closed. Due time under the law was given for the distribution of land. Then came the final day and night that was permitted. It was a long-to-be-remembered occasion. Until 11 o'clock that night when the final closing moment came there was not a dull moment in the more than 50 places in which the liquors were dispensed.

In order to handle the additional trade that was expected many men were added to the selling force. They and the regular bar-tenders were kept busy. It is recorded that persons never known to patronize the establishments went in to provide for liquors that might be needful for medicines and otherwise. Baskets were filled by many while delivery wagons were rushed in all directions. But few, if any, motor delivery wagons were then in vogue so that the tramping of the feet of horses upon the hardened streets kept up a merry din.

Then there was the clinking of bottles and occasionally the breakage that ensued added to the general confusion that obtained.

For the most part the general order was good. The law was recognized and every effort was made to carryout its provisions. Some of the owners of the closed establishments took down their signs as the closing hour approached. Practically all gave out intentions of entering other trades.

SOME remarkable bargains in liquors were procured by those patronizing the closing places. It is now recalled. Some of the fine whiskeys that had sold for $1.50 and $2.00 a quart were sold at one-third of this price. The tendency of many at the time was to lay in a goodly supply. In the degree that it was possible this was done.

In those days the city had a horse drawn police wagon which also was often used as an ambulance. Its passing could be recognized by the peculiar noises that emanated from the galloping feet of the horses drawing it. By such sounds it was possible to note that something direful and untoward had happened.

Some time after the closing hour of the saloons upon that eventful night this peculiar sound was heard by many of the citizens who had retired to their homes and lived along the route that led to the City hospital. Those not hearing it that night were to hear the next morning that tragedy followed in the wake of the closing of the saloons in the city for the period stipulated by the law.

The vehicle on that occasion had carried the wounded body of Clark Hineman of Lower Broadway to the City hospital. He had been the proprietor of one of the places that had been closed. When the final hour had been reached he with others wended their way to the foot of the street and stood upon the bank facing the river.

During this interim of hanging about and talking over the events of the night and day some sort of an altercation broke out. In the mix-up a gun exploded. The bullet penetrated the body of Mr. Hineman, who was a young man in his early thirties. He was strong and vigorous, but the wound laid him low. He was given every attention. His parents were brought here from a West Virginia city. It was deemed necessary to operate upon him. Rev. Dr. T. W. McLane, himself now also gone, called upon him just before the operation. He received the Methodist pastor with appreciation and courtesy. But the operation failed to save his life. He succumbed before the end of the week.

Much was discovered of the fatally wounded young man during his period of stay at the hospital that revealed him a constant reader and student. He had many books in his living quarters. The affair served to mar the end of the project brought about by the election. It was never fully discovered just how the fatal wound was administered to the wounded man.

Some years later at another election that occurred, probably a county one, the saloons were again returned to the city and remained as part of its business life until the era of prohibition began during the course of the World war. There were, during these years, many contests about the question with ardent advocates on both sides. In this connection it is noteworthy that many of those who were leaders on both sides in these hard fought battles have by now passed away or removed elsewhere.

In some manner, perhaps due to the deep viewpoints of those on both sides, East Liverpool became widely known as fighting ground in those days. Perhaps the best national speakers on both sides of the question thus found their way to the city to take part in the educational battle that ever was carried on before the time of the voting.

In those days the South was leading in the dry movement. Thus it came about that some of the finest oratorical talent from the Southland found their way to the Pottery City. Mass meetings were almost the rule every Sunday afternoon. Many of these were held in the theaters of the city.

Parades were of nearly occurrence, both of the contending parties on occasions finding it necessary to meet each other. There were noon-day meetings upon the streets. Potters came out from their benches to hear the arguments thus given out. They thought of them as they worked in the afternoon, rushed home to a supper then came out to hear some more argument by perhaps an entirely new array of speaking talent in the evening.

ONE of the famed wet speakers of the period was Mr. Windle of Chicago. He was a profound thinker and ever held the large crowds hearing him. Then there was the St. Louis, Mo., clergyman who afterwards was elected to congress. He was a brilliant orator. He had been educated at Oberlin college in Ohio.

The latter, however, did not live long after he entered congress. Once while in East Liverpool he remained late into the morning talking with both wets and drys who gathered about his table to hear his comments of men whom he knew in national life. His action indicated the relationships that existed for the most part between their individual viewpoints in these spirited elections. The former friendships that obtained remained the same for the most part between victors and losers.

THE THEATER

KING AL JOLSON OF SCREEN EMPIRE ABDICATES THRONE

"Singing Fool" Will Stay On Stage, Quits Pictures.

HOLLYWOOD — Abdication of the Spanish monarch Alfonso had its movie counterpart in the recent tacti abdication of King Al of the talkies.

Jolson, who took a chance on the talkies and through them reaped a new fortune, was quoted in New York as being content to stay in his element, the stage, and let pictures alone.

That, of course, was at the time of the successful opening of his new show, "The Wonder Bar," and few people out here have taken him seriously—especially as, according to United Artists, he is under contract to make two pictures for them—time indefinite.

BIG MONEY
The Jolson type of picture had suffered a decided decline at the time of his departure, and his box-office appeal was not the certain it was after "The Jazz Singer" and "The Singing Fool."

Succeeding pictures were less potent, and that probably had something to do with the postponement of "Sons of Guns."

The star drew a half million dollars on contract while waiting for production to begin, but is said to be willing to make the picture, when the studio's ready and his stage engagement is completed, without further remuneration.

If Jolson, the stage's first grand slam into talkie affairs, did mean what he said so exuberantly, he will have lots of company in other stage stars who were brought here as new screen lights and now are safely tucked where they started from.

And for every one that leaves, it seems that one or more of the silent screen's favorites returns.

Adolphe Menjou, Esther Ralston, Laura LaPlante, Wallace Beery, Thomas Meighan, are active on the screen again, all in positions more secure than when they left, and Emil Jannings, Mae Murray and Pola Negri are making come-backs that are being watched with interest.

BAD ONES
Some of Hollywood's tough boys aren't nearly so mean as they look.

But one tough young actor recently enlivened a party by pushing the face of another who, until he met The Girl, had been almost as tough and unapacific. Now, remembering his promise to her, he turned the other cheek to have that smacked too. Then he lost his patience, let fly a right, and dropped his assailant cold.

On-screen, he is as peaceful as any other juvenile. You never can tell.

CERAMIC

Two human forms swaying, lunging on a filmy fire-escape 33 stories above the street. A grim combat that can terminate only in death for one of them.

That is the thrilling anti-climax of William Powell's latest Paramount production, "Ladies' Man," which closes today at the Ceramic theater.

The story leading up to this tragic struggle high up near the roof of one of New York's large hotels, is a story of a New York Don Juan who gains a livelihood by falling in love with the type of woman who feels no scruples against showering lavish gifts upon him.

William Powell plays the role of this famous character as delineated in Rupert Hughes' well-known Cosmopolitan Magazine serial of the same name. Society women are mad about him—although he is neither a person of money nor position. In fact his background is so vague that no one seems to know whence he came. But his suave manners, his quiet charm are enough to set in flames the hearts of the elite ladies of the city.

And when the husband of one of them learns the truth, he sweats to "get" Powell. The result is the battle far above the sidewalks of blazing Broadway, just at the theater hour.

Powell is supported in this picture by a galaxy of competent performers. Kay Francis leads the support. She was teamed with Powell in "Streets of Chance" and "For the Defense." She was lately seen with Ronald Colman in "Raffles."

Others are Gilbert Emery, Carole Lombard, Olive Tell, John Holland, Maude Turner Gordon and Frank Atkinson.

STATE

George Arliss, playing the part of James Alden, American business man without makeup in his new Warner Brothers picture "The Millionaire," now at the State theater, offered a serious problem to valet Jenner, while the picture was in production.

In former pictures Jenner arriving precisely at 4:30 each afternoon would take Mr. Arliss away from cameras and microphones and send him home. Sometimes Mr. Arliss was anxious to work later. Then Jenner, secure in his quarter of a century of service and the knowledge that Arliss would eventually thank him for his care, would calmly take off the Arliss character wig, or the turban, or the whiskers or a cloak and walk away, leaving both star and crew powerless to go further with the filming.

But in "The Millionaire" Mr. Arliss wore neither wig nor turban, costume or makeup and Jenner had nothing tangible to lay his hands on to spoil the scene when it was time for his master to stop work.

He could, and did on occasion stand in front of the cameras and once or twice grumbled loudly enough to be heard in the recording so that eventually he had his way again and Mr. Arliss had his rest.

On a few occasions Arliss, smilingly, indicated to Jenner that he really wished to work a little longer. And Jenner, who knows just how far to go and just when to retire from the scene, let his master and Director John Adolfi have a half hour's grace.

AMERICAN

An unusual story of crooked business is told in the Fox production, "Quick Millions," which opens today at the American theater.

An ambitious young truck driver raises himself from the gutter to the highest social and business circles.

Ruling with an iron hand, he soon establishes himself as the most powerful figure in his community.

Living by "mob rule," once he reaches the top he decides to turn respectable and "raise grandchildren." The society girl he chooses to help him inaugurate this new dynasty, does not relish his past record and prefers a man of her own social status.

What happen to the boss when he tries to resume leadership after once giving it up supplies one of the most exciting climaxes ever conceived in a screen story.

Spencer Tracy has the star role, with Marguerite Churchill playing the part of the society girl. Others prominent in the cast include Sally Eilers, John Wra, Robert Burns, Warner Richmond and George Raft. Rowland Brown directed.

WHITE VETOES OF 30 BILLS WILL STAND

Senate is Expected to Kill Rejected Measures.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., May 12.—No attempt was indicated today in the senate to override any of the 30 vetoes of Governor White to the 169 bills passed at the general session of the general assembly.

The senate had the veto messages for a special order of business this afternoon but as a result of the pro-administration sentiment in the house yesterday on the only attempt to pass a bill over the executive's veto it appeared probable that the senate would kill all vetoed bills.

Representative Theodore Kemp Jr. (D) of Newark, asked passage of his bill to relieve property owners of county road assessments, over the governor's veto. The proposal lost 20 for passage and 91 against.

The senate also has as a special order of business the bills for recodification of the Ohio mining laws which was recommended by a special committee appointed by the governor to study the proposition on authority of a legislative resolution.

Special taxation bills proposed by the special joint taxation committee in compliance with the classification tax amendment adopted in 1929 were introduced yesterday and the standing committees of the senate and house immediately started a study of them.

At a joint meeting of the standing committees with the special joint committee last night the purpose of the bills was explained as a preliminary to further hearings during the remainder of the week, in which the legislators are expected to thoroughly familiarize themselves with contents of the measures.

Next week, under tentative plans, the senate and house memberships, sitting as committees of the whole, are expected to hold public hearings on the tax measures.

Lest We Forget

MEMORIAL DAY will soon be here. You will not permit an "Unmarked Grave" to silently ask, does no one care? Perhaps you do not realize the advantage of an early selection of a memorial for one you have loved and lost awhile. The memorial you place on the grave of those you love is the outward sign of that which is in your heart.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

SYNOPSIS: At the home of Nora Lake's late husband, Nicholas Thayer, near Albany, his step-sister, Damon Van Vorst, blames her for having failed to prevent his suicide. But, impelled by duty to Nicholas, she asks Nora to live with them. Jonathan Thayer's frank talk to her concerning his brother overcomes Nora's dislike for her, but it flames anew when she overhears his reference to her "wretched tramp of a father." Planning soon to live at the Thayer place, Nora returns to the home of her Aunt Emily and finds a letter from Italy, advising that her father's marriage plans are called off. She joins her aunt and cousins, Frances—deserted by her husband—and crippled Hallie, at dinner. Poor young Dr. More is in their guest.

Chapter 19
DOES JON WANT HER?
LIKE a spectator Nora looked about at the faces gathered around the table of her Aunt Emily's house: Aunt Em, Fran, Hallie, and young Dr. More with his sensitive mouth; each one of whom was defeated by life, struggling against poverty and drudgery, hard work and illness. Against the instability that such a precarious existence entails, she saw the solidity of the old Thayer mansion. Dr. More had turned to her and was asking, "Your aunt tells me you have lived so long in Europe, have you ever stayed in Germany? I want to go there one day to study."

"No," she answered indifferently. "I have never been there. And not for years and years do I want to go away. If you know how glad I am to be home!"
He nodded silently, looking at the faces under the glow of the yellow globe. Sheets of rain blew against the windows. The dining room was warm and cozy and they were rested and stimulated by the hot food.

Nora saw his look and she added honestly, "I meant, with my husband's people. Do you know the Van Vorsts?" she asked with sudden interest.
He told her no, drawing his velvet brows together. Nora compared him with Jon again, his thin plain face, sensitive, humorous, eager, without Jon's pride of race. But Jon was treacherous. Her heart swelled with anger as she thought of him.

"Mr. Van Vorst bought up all the land down by the river for a mile," Nora said for the pleasure of thinking aloud about them.
"Van Vorst," Fergus More mused. "I think I do remember that name now. Was it he who bought up a whole village so that the people who were foreigners had no place to go and had to give up their livelihood—it seemed a greedy plot to make those people leave what had once been a thriving settlement," he concluded.

Nora said impetuously, at this hint of criticism, "I'm sure it's much more important to preserve that beautiful country without ugly small shacks—"
"Yes, more beautiful for the Van Vorsts," he admitted.

She flashed a glance at him. He did not approve of her, she could see, but who was this poor struggling young doctor to approve or disapprove?

After supper when Fran had carried the sleepy baby up to bed, she returned to play the violin for them. Nora was carried out of herself, away from the firelight and intent faces to the old Dutch house standing high above the river. There life was lived beautifully, gracefully, and there she too would live it.
That night as she and Frances went to bed, she told her plans. "Don't you want us to help you with your clothes?" Fran offered generously.
"I don't want them to be ashamed of me," Nora admitted.
"But how could they? Poverty is nothing to be ashamed of. And your father's father was governor of the state and Uncle Chapman was a judge of the Supreme Court."

"And my own mother was the daughter of a little shop-keeper in Cork!" Nora said laughing. "And I'm proud of it!"

They discussed just how far her money should go, what she would need.
Hallie had joined them and she offered her opinion:
"The most important things are shoes and hats. A well dressed woman should think of those first."

Nora looked at Hallie in the drab brown dress with the sleeves that showed her bony wrists, and the high black laced shoes about her distorted ankles.
In the evenings now they clustered about the table where Frances pinned lengths of crepe de chine to tissue paper patterns, while Aunt Em made the sewing machine hum, and Hallie set in one fine stitch after the other.

There was something pleasantly intimate in these evenings as they laughed and talked together.
"Mother, take those pins out of your mouth; you're worse than Dickie!"
Aunt Emily laughed and related one of Dickie's amusing experiences.

Nora listened, joined in their laughter, drawn closer to the heart of the family. She saw that poverty had not embittered them. It seemed to have added a zest for the hopes and struggles and small triumphs that they faced each day.

On Monday Jon was to come for her. On Monday the sport dress of leaf green, the white crepe that Fran had made so exquisitely, the crisp linen were all laid between tissue paper; the slippers, the small hat, and suede gloves were ready to slip on, on the instant. And it was on Monday that Dickie was burned.

The colored woman, Mattie, who came every Monday to wash, had lifted a pail of boiling water from the stove, and Dickie, who had been playing under the kitchen table, ran full tilt into it.
Nora heard his sudden, piercing scream. She rushed downstairs to find the baby in agony and Mattie, ash-gray, groaning and crying out to the good Lord to save them all! It was Dr. More who lifted the writhing baby and carried him up to his bed.
"Will he live?" Nora whispered beside Dr. More in the bedroom. He did not even answer as he gave his orders.

"The antiseptic cotton, and telephone the drug store for this—!" he said, scrawling a list. "Hurry!"
She heard Dickie's small moans like those of a tortured animal. She spent a terrible morning trying to get Aunt Em who had gone out to give music lessons. Fran came home, so white and sick with fear that Nora could not bear to see her.
"Frances will help me," Dr. More told Nora curtly.
Fran's intense quiet, Hallie so strong in this emergency were strange to Nora. Nora went out to the kitchen closet and hid her face on the towel crying, "Please God, let him live. Just let him live."

She knew she could do nothing for them. Aunt Em would be home at any minute now and Frances and Hallie were here. She would go with Jon when he came at five, she thought, washing the dishes in greasy dish water.
All day she had been answering the telephone, solicited neighbors had come in; but she would still have time to dress and be ready for Jon.

The bell rang again and she hurried up the back stairs. She opened the door to see Jon Thayer standing there. Back of him was the thin spring sunlight opening on a world that she had almost forgotten existed.
"Are you ready?" he asked pleasantly. "I know I'm a little early."

He looked at her hands still wet and greasy and at the kitchen apron she had not yet taken off. Her resentment at his superb indifference flared up.
"The baby's been burned. He may not live," she told him.
"Is there anything I can do?"
But he was not really touched. His indifference angered her.

"I don't see how I can leave them," she said.
A few minutes before she had planned on going and then these words had sprung to her lips. But seeing Jon face to face she remembered how he had told Damon that she was a tramp. She wanted him to urge her; to show in some way what he felt toward her.
"But there's nothing here for you to do, is there? His mother is with him?"

They stood in the narrow hall and he glanced at the long line of coats on the hooks and up at the shabby young doctor who came running down to his office without looking toward them.
"It would be heartless to go," he said in some way that was obscure to her she knew that she and Jon were fighting a battle with hidden weapons: Jon with his indifference and she with her distrust. He must urge her! He must reassure her; tell her that he had been expecting her, and she waited.

"Damon expects you," he smiled. He did not say that he wanted her to come.
"No, I can't come."
"Very soon then, next week when he is out of danger?"
He stood smiling on the steps. He drew in a breath of fresh air as though the atmosphere of the dingy old house had clouded his lungs. Then he ran down to his car.

A letter from Damon tomorrow confronts Nora with hard reality, and tears blot out a doctor's compliment.

STEUBENVILLE BAND EXPLAINS

Weather Caused Jefferson County Musicians to Quit Portsmouth, Not Decision, Principal Says.

By The Associated Press.
STEUBENVILLE, O., May 13.—P. J. Mick, principal of the Wells high school at Steubenville today denied the report that the Steubenville High school band had withdrawn from the Ohio high school band tournament at Portsmouth, because of a dispute over the decision of the judges in awarding Portsmouth first place in the playing.
The statement was made after

Stanley Garee, director of the Martins Ferry band, which also withdrew had filed a protest against the decision in which he charged that the judges had failed to listen to other bands which competed against the home organization. Martins Ferry, Steubenville and Mansfield, three of the five bands which participated in the tournament, refused to march in Saturday's parade.
The Steubenville band declined to parade because of a desire to return before dark, Wick said. It was raining hard and the rain would have ruined the uniforms. "We were treated fine in Portsmouth and have no complaint to make about the contest," he declared.

Beaver Man Seeks Reversal of Zoning Board's Refusal for Gasoline Station Permit.

BEAVER — The appeal of John T. Taylor of Beaver for permission to erect a service station at Third and Beaver streets here was ordered docketed by Judge Frank E. Reader in court here Tuesday.

Taylor started the proceedings as a writ of mandamus against Daniel A. Moore, Beaver building inspector. The supreme court recently ruled that such a proceeding was not the proper legal form and must be heard as an appeal. Attorney Charles H. Stone, counsel for the borough, attempted to prevent the action from being entered. Judge Reader claimed the local court must follow the suggestions of the higher courts.

Taylor was refused a building permit by Moore, because the site of the proposed service station was in a residence district. The court here at the first hearing scored the Beaver zoning ordinance as being "too indefinite."

MARKETS

HEAVY TONE TO STOCK MARKET

Prices Generally Off At Opening; Feeble Rally.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A resumption of selling pressure against the rails, although more moderate than yesterday, gave the stock market a heavy tone today.

Prices were generally off at the opening and losses were extended during the earlier trading, but support appeared for the leaders at the lower levels and the list rallied rather feebly, although trading became very dull on the rally. U. S. Steel, after duplicating its previous low of 109 1/2, fully recovered its loss of 1 1/2 but then sagged again. New York Central dipped 2 points to a new low and there were recessions of about the same size in American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Missouri-Kansas-Texas preferred, Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific and Worthington Pump. Athlon lost 3. American Can made up half of an early 2 point break.

Overnight news were mildly cheerful. "Iron Age" said steel operations were unchanged at 47 per cent of capacity, largely because of sustained demand from the automobile industry and an improved movement of structural products. The price situation, however, remains unfavorable.

The increase of about 16,000 cars in freight loadings for the week ended May 2 was virtually in line with seasonal tendencies. Oil production in East Texas was cut sharply, offsetting a gain in Oklahoma. The daily average declined 6,400 barrels in the last week. Gasoline stocks increased slightly. Sterling cables opened at $4.85, off 1-32.

a greater share in the South American markets.

Complimenting advertising men of the United States, the prince said: "I am sorry to say that as a nation we are very far behind in advertising."

American advertisers should remember that this refers to advertising specialists, men who study the art of advertising, making it their only business.

For a business man, no matter how clever in his own line, to imagine that he can do his own advertising is as foolish as it would be for him to imagine that he could be the architect of a skyscraper or the engineer of a great manufacturing plant.

Produce goods that the people want. Get the right advertising agent, let him tell people that you have the goods.

THE FINANCIAL ILL WIND blows good for those who borrow and have good credit. New York City yesterday sold $52,000,000 of four-year corporate stock to a group headed by the National City Co., at an interest charge of less than three per cent, the best bargain the city has made in 30 years.

In Wall Street those who speculate can borrow money "on call" for 1 per cent a year.

Very few have any appetite for speculating now. They are like the mouse in the trap that did not "care for cheese."

CRIME DOES NOT PAY. An unusually clever young New York criminal, sentenced to prison for stealing, studied law, pleaded his own case and was released. Police say he then started studying law in earnest, intending to "go straight," but became a backslider. He was arrested again, charged with stealing diamonds. His career ends now, other criminals having become dissatisfied with his methods.

At 1 a. m. yesterday he left a speakeasy, one of New York's many thousands, called the "Mad Dot Boat Club." A friend walked beside him to "put him on the spot."

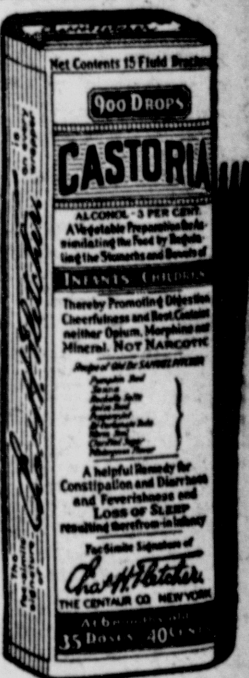

The friend stepped aside, ran, three men in an automobile shot the young criminal to death. Crime believes in capital punishment for its own offenders.

Castoria... for CHILDREN'S ailments

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or for the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish spell, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine.

Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the formula on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

Captures Fifth Win

Brave Moundsman Turns Back Reds as Teams Split.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.

If the 1931 baseball season follows the pattern set by two previous years, the Philadelphia Athletics are due to win their third straight American league pennant. Twice in succession the A's started badly and then breezed through to the championship. This year they were off to a bad start again.

In 1929, Philadelphia required five weeks to get into first place but never was headed. Last year, the A's dropped as low as fourth early in the season, climbed back to the top in May, dropped out again to regain the post on June 1 for all but two days of the remainder of the season. This season they have had plenty of troubles but finally are back in their accustomed place at the top of the leading.

It took Bob Grove's pitching and all the slugging the A's are accustomed to give him to win first place. Some weather in St. Louis came as an added aid. While the New York Yankees were idle in St. Louis, Grove pitched a four hit game and Simmons, Fox and Co. batted out a 5 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox to give the A's the lead by a few percentage points. Grove was a bit wobbly in the first half of the game, granting a pair of runs in the fourth when Carl Reynolds tripled but he breezed through the last four frames without giving a hit.

Many Good Performances.

Grove was not the only pitching hero of yesterday's games, however, for every contest which escaped the weather brought forth a good mound performance. Vic Sorrell did the work in the second American league game, pitching Detroit to a 2 to 0 victory over the Boston Red Sox. The Tigers made only six hits off the combined pitching of Jack Russell and Hod Lisenbee, but they put together three of them in the fourth with Hayworth's double, bringing in both runs.

Ed Brandt of the Boston Braves won his fifth straight victory by beating the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 2 in the first game of a double header, then Silas Johnson reversed the decision by a 3 to 2 count in a fine mound duel with Bruce Cunningham. Brandt's victory, gained through a three-run rally in the first inning, was notable because it gave him one more game this year than he was able to win all last season. Cincinnati won the second game with the aid of a passing locomotive which sent forth a cloud of smoke to hide the ball from Berker's view. What looked like an easy fly was recorded as a double for Roush and drove in two runs. Doubles by Hendrick and Heathcote in the eighth brought in the deciding tally.

Three other National league games suffered the same fate as two in the American, giving way to cold and wet weather.

TACKLES HARRY MORRIS THURSDAY

Here's Johnny Dunn, New Kensington's contribution to the fight game, who will trade punches with Harry Morris, Weirton battler, in one of the eight-round bouts on the fight program to be presented tomorrow night in the Eagles auditorium. Dunn, holder of three decisions over Jackie Rodgers, is now under the wing of Ray Foutts who has many nice things to say of the 24-year-old featherweight.

Bus Mason Lauded By Teddy Yarosz

Beaver Youth, Who Fights in Prelim Here Thursday, Called Great Prospect by Monacan; Meets Andy Brosky.

By ROBERT ELLIOTT, Sports Editor, The Review.

Taking the words of Teddy Yarosz, the crack Monaca welterweight, "this Bus Mason who meets Andy Brosky at the Eagles tomorrow night, is a great prospect." Ted ought to know for Mason was his sparring partner for two months and gave Yarosz some entertaining work outs.

Bus tips the scales around 135 pounds and has had several pretty fair bouts watching the referee name him the winner. He holds a victory over the "Sawdust Kid," having put him down for the count in two rounds. Mason goes up against Andy Brosky, promising Steubenville slugger, in a four round preliminary at the final indoor fight show of the season Thursday. Brosky is rated as a great puncher and Al Green, sports editor of the Steubenville Herald-Star, calls him the best prospect in the Suburb City.

The Mason-Brosky tilt follows a three-round card-opened between Bill Fairweather, the pride of industry, and Bill Jenkins. Bill hasn't fought on a local card for quite a while but was a big favorite with the fans when he did appear here. Jenkins is a tough southpaw from Steubenville. These two boys will step around at 152 pounds.

The four and three round bouts are the appetizers for the trio of eight-round tilts that feature the show. In the first of these, which incidentally may turn out to be the best of the lot, Jack Kelly of Youngstown clashes with Johnny Demphko of Weirton at 160 pounds. Kelly has had a highly successful list of local appearances but the consensus of opinion on his match with Demphko is that the Weirton lad will administer that Youngstowner his first Pottery City set back.

Demphko has been having a run of victories of late, clinched by a triumph over Sammy Madison at Weirton last Saturday night.

In the second of the eight-stanza scraps, Johnny Dunn of New Kensington runs up against Harry Morris, another Weirton battler. Local fans will have no trouble in recalling the flashy Morris while Dunn is making his local debut. Dunn, billed as Western Pennsylvania's leading featherweight, has tangled with the best boys in his division, and will rank a slight favorite over Morris.

The top bout looks like a wow, to say the least. Jimmie Guthrie in one corner and Jimmie Moore in the other. Moore, claimant to the middleweight championship of Michigan, has had two starts since arriving in the local area and has won both. His victims were Mikev

French Boxers Defeated

Drop Five Out of Eight Contests to American Troupe.

CHICAGO, May 13.—When 50,000 persons sit shivering and shuddering with cold to watch four hours of amateur boxing, they can't be wrong.

Last night at Soldier Field, on Chicago's lake front where a chilling breeze blew in from Lake Michigan, that many spectators watched the Golden Glove winners of New York and Chicago conquer, five bouts to three, the pick of France's leather swingers. And not a one of them left until Ferdinand Ladrin, a stubby 190 pounder, had beaten Yustin Sirutis, a New York university sophomore and Eastern intercollegiate heavyweight champion, for France's third, and most stirring victory.

The United States won the first three fights. Leo Rodak of Chicago, was too strong for Andre Perrier of France in the 112 pound class. Henri Bruyere was unable to cope with the two-fisted attack of Nick Salabala, Golden Gloves bantamweight champion. Gabriel Lerat made a gallant stand against Don Gonzales of Cleveland, but the decision went against him.

Marcel Enault, a sturdy blond-haired Frenchman, scored France's first victory when he outboxed Scotty Sylvano of Chicago, in the 135 pound battle. Phil Dardell of New York was too clever for Jacques De LaHayes in the welterweight division, but Jean Zigau gave France another triumph by defeating Fred Caserio of Chicago, captain of the American team, in the 160 pound class.

Jack Kranz of Gary, Ind., easily defeated Alexandre Elias, the French captain, but Ferdinand Ladrin, the French heavyweight, furnished the most sensational performance of the program to defeat Sirutis. Outweighed 30 pounds, and a foot shorter than his American adversary, Ladrin conducted himself somewhat like Johnny Risko, swinging punches from everywhere, to gain the decision.

Newell To Visit Bakers

Wellsville Hurlers Doped to Win Battle.

Chester	2	1	.667
Newell	1	1	.500
Golden Stars	0	1	.000

ONE of the best games of the Community league schedule so far is expected this evening at Nicholson field, Wellsville, where the Homer Laughlins will do battle with the Wilk Bakers. The Bakers are leading the loop with two straight wins while Newell is in third place with one win and one setback. A defeat for the Wilkmen will shove them into a tie with the Chester News and Newell for first place.

Percy Wyant will in all probability take care of the chucking duties for the visitors while Manager Nicholson has three or four moundsmen available for work against the hard-clubbing Dailey combine. We wouldn't be at all surprised to see the Bakers administered defeat No. 1 in today's battle.

Practically all of the five clubs have decided to adopt the two-umpire plan for all home games. Both Hall and Lorah worked the Newell-Chester fracas Monday and the result was gratifying. It means a slight increase to the home club but is worth every cent of it. It speeds the game up and increases the efficiency of the umpires at least 50 percent.

The season is just a little over a week old and already two postponed games are on the books. The Golden Stars' tilt with Newell at Clarke field was called off twice on account of rain while the Golden Star-Potters Supply fracas, billed for Patterson field last evening, was forced to be cancelled on account of the antics of old Jup Pluvius.

TILDEN RANKS HEAVY FAVORITE

BOSTON, Mass., May 13.—William T. Tilden and Vincent Richards, the headliners of Promoter Jack Curley's touring tennis troupe, left here today for Philadelphia, where they will meet in the third match of their series for the world's professional tennis championship tomorrow night.

Tilden became a heavy favorite to capture the title last night when he defeated Richards for the second time in succession in a five set match. The scores were 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3.

WILDCATS SEEK EIGHTH VICTORY

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Northwestern university's baseball team will seek its eighth straight victory of the season today. Meeting Knox college at Evanston, while Notre Dame will clash with the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

The Michigan-Ohio State game was stopped by rain in the second inning at Ann Arbor. The cancellation was the third in five conferences games appearing on the Buckeye schedule.

Defeats 5 Others In Trial

Mueller Colt Continues Sensational Work In "Kaintuck."

By The Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 13.—T. E. Mueller's Big Colt Pittsburgher, today appeared to be the horse the Eastern candidates must beat to prevent the Kentucky Derby prize going to an eligible which has been training in Kentucky.

Pittsburgher defeated five other Western eligibles in the Derby trial yesterday at a mile and a sixteenth, proving he not only can run a distance but can win in the mud as well. Pittsburgher now has won three races as a three year old, more than any other eligible for the Derby. The first was at a mile and seventy yards, the second six and a half furlongs and the third three-sixteenths less than Derby distance. They were on varying kinds of track.

The winner of the trial last year, Uncle Luther, did not place in the Derby but Uncle Luther did not have as formidable a record as a three year old as has the Shady Brook farm thoroughbred. Pittsburgher has gone to the post four times in Kentucky, has not defeated only once, and every time he has won he has surprised the wise boys who had made another horse in the race the favorite.

By this token Twenty Grand, Mate and Epupoise, Eastern eligibles and favorites to share the $50,000 added stake Saturday, may be surprised by a large chestnut colt, called "The Big Train," running around them in the stretch and getting up in front in plenty of time to capture the rich prize.

The withdrawal of Morston yesterday left Twenty Grand and his stable mates, Surf Board and Anchors Aweigh; Mate, Epupoise and Ladder the principal Eastern contenders for Derby honors. Spanish Fly second in the Derby trial; Insko, Sweep All, Up, and Pittsburgher are the leading hopes of the west to stave off their attack.

Reserve Booked To Leave Group

Cleveland School Said To Be Ready to Withdraw From Loop.

CLEVELAND, May 13.—The Cleveland News today said Western Reserve university will ask to be dropped from active membership in the Ohio athletic conference at the meeting of faculty representatives of that body at Oberlin May 29. If the action is not approved the school will sever all connections with the conference.

The News said it had learned on "indisputable authority" that Dean William D. Trautman, who will represent Reserve at the meeting, has been empowered to take such action.

It was understood that the school will give no reasons for its withdrawal from the conference it helped found. The principal reason, however, was believed to lie in Reserve's ambitious program of athletic expansion which has little in common with the rest of the body. The Red Cats last year began scheduling contests with some of the country's major schools and at present are negotiating for the services of Andy Kerr, Colgate's famous football coach, starting in 1932.

It was reported Kerr was offered $12,000 a year with a five-year contract and the privilege of naming the Reserve coach for 1931 while he finishes his contract with Colgate.

Wrestling Due to Return After Absence of 9 Years

Paddy Sullivan Will Offer Wrestling Parson In First Show Here Within Month; To be Held at Eagles.

Wrestling—that mystic game of the "groan and grunt"—will stage a return to East Liverpool athletic circles within the next month after a lengthy absence of some nine years, according to announcement made today by Paddy Sullivan.

The mat game has been gaining in popularity throughout the country and it was only a matter of time until somebody decided to give it a whirl in the Pottery City district. Pittsburgh is staging weekly shows after a long layoff and attracting goodly crowds.

Sullivan will collaborate in staging wrestling shows here with Al Haft, athletic impresario de luxe of Columbus. Haft controls some of the leading wrestling lights in every division, thus assuring local fans of the best in the entertainment line.

The first show, which will be held in the Eagles auditorium, according to Sullivan, will take place perhaps in three weeks. Just how often the programs will be offered here is not known now but will depend on the amount of enthusiasm shown by local devotees toward the mat sport.

The Wrestling Parson, who tosses mat opponents around with great abandon during the week, and then preaches on Sunday, will be one of the participants in the main bout of the first show. He will be matched with some leading Ohioan. Ray Carpenter is among the possibilities.

Marietta Pioneers Set For First Race Next Saturday

Ohio's Lone Collegiate Rowing Crew to Compete With Harvard, Pennsylvania and Navy Over Schuylkill Course.

By The United Press.

MARIETTA, O., May 13.—Ohio's only collegiate rowing crew—the Marietta College Pioneers—was thoroughly conditioned today for its maiden race, next Saturday, against the shells of Harvard, Pennsylvania and Navy over the Schuylkill river course at Philadelphia.

Marietta may or may not have a good crew. Its speed tests have been satisfactory, but do not indicate what the Buckeye oarsmen will do against grueling competition on a fast course. The crew has been working out for many weeks on the Muskingum and Ohio under the coaching of Ellis Mac Donald, once a member of the Washington crew.

The four cornered race will be held over a one and a half mile course instead of the Henley distance of one and five-sixteenths miles under a last minute change in plans.

Rusty Callow, the veteran Pennsylvania coach, formerly tutored only collegiate rowing crew—the MacDonald when the later rowed with Washington.

Following the Philadelphia race, the Marietta crew will compete against Washington when the Huskies stop off here on their way to the Poughkeepsie regatta in June. The Washington-Marietta race will take place on June 9, according to present plans. Both freshmen and varsity eights will row.

Laughlin China company, stressed the importance of cooperation between various branches of the ceramic industry in an address at the banquet in the Travelers' hotel Tuesday night when 79 members of the Pittsburgh branch of the American Ceramic society were entertained. His subject was "Industrial Vision."

Leonard G. Tait, ceramics director in the East Liverpool high school, was toastmaster. Speaking on "Chicago in 1933," Dr. Ross C. Purdy of Columbus, general secretary of the American Ceramic society, outlined plans for the erection of a ceramic building in the "One Hundred Years of Progress" exposition in Chicago.

The building will be backed by ceramic manufacturers and will be erected at a cost of half a million dollars. It will contain exhibits of all types of American-made pottery.

A feature of the program was a brief history of East Liverpool by Attorney Walter B. Hill, whose subject was "Why Pottery in East Liverpool?"

The visiting delegation inspected the new plant of the Hall China company in Kiondyke and the Patterson Foundry and Machine company in East End. They returned home following the banquet.

PEACE STORY TO BE REPRINTED

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., May 13.—An article, "Books as Passports to Peace," written by Miss Evaline Harrington, Columbus, and published in an Ohio school magazine, so impressed officials of the League of Nations that they have ordered the article reprinted in pamphlet form for free distribution throughout the United States. It was learned. Miss Harrington is a teacher in a Columbus high school.

"In all these speeches, no mention was made of the one thing which has been the major cause of the depression and which will continue to cause depressions until it is eliminated or remedied. That is the lack of balance between production and distribution."

"The present civilization is built almost entirely on production. Hundreds of colleges in all parts of the country and in many other countries are busily engaged in training young men to invent, design and to direct others in mass production. Next month several thousands of these youths will be graduated but what can they do?"

"There is no hope for economic stability, which means the elimination of the possibility of depressions, unless a balance can be made between mass production and distribution. We must have mass distribution. We must have men trained to meet the problems of mass distribution."

"In time this training of men to fit them for handling distribution as well as mass production will be brought about, otherwise our civilization will be ruined. Schools in the future will teach men the principles of mass distribution, including transportation, marketing and selling. The man, who discovers these principles and outlines ways of meeting these problems, will be a truly great benefactor."

PROF. FALLOWS GIVES CAUSES OF DEPRESSION

Balance Wheel Needed
Educator Tells Rotarians.

Dr. G. H. Fallows, professor in the engineering department of the Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh, offered "intensive education in the principles of mass distribution" as the only possible solution of world-wide depression in a talk at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in the Travelers' hotel Tuesday at noon.

Twenty-five members of the senior class in the commercial engineering department at Carnegie Tech were guests of the club. The students visited the Homer Laughlin China company's plants at Newell and the factories of the Hall China company and the Patterson Foundry and Machine company in East End as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce during the day.

Dr. Fallows was introduced by A. L. White, who was chairman of the program. The meeting was in charge of J. S. Hilbert.

The speaker said: "In address made at the International Chamber of Commerce session at Washington, D. C., President Hoover and many of the leading industrial and economic figures of the world blamed excessive armament, over-production, high tariffs and other things for the present depression and made many suggestions of remedies for the situation."

"In all these speeches, no mention was made of the one thing which has been the major cause of the depression and which will continue to cause depressions until it is eliminated or remedied. That is the lack of balance between production and distribution."

W. C. T. U. HITS PLAN TO HOLD SUNDAY FAIR

Protest Lodged With Chardon Fair Board.

By The Associated Press.
CHARDON, O., May 13.—The announcement from the Geauga county fair board of its intention to keep the fair open to the public on Sunday, September 6, has brought a vigorous protest from the County Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The women's organization met recently and drew up resolutions opposing holding the fair open on Sunday. They notified the board that the union would "fight tooth and nail" against such action. The protest was mailed to W. S. Ford of Burton, fair secretary, and a delegation called upon Arthur B. Carlson, Chardon, president of the fair board.

The county fair this year is 100 years old, and since it was the first fair in the state to reach the mark of a century of existence the board had planned an exceptional program, including antique displays and historical pageants.

"We had not planned to have racing, contests or various attractions operating on Sunday," Carlson said.

FORMER OHIOAN IS NABBED IN GIRL'S DEATH

Fugitive From Asylum Held at San Diego.

By International News Service.
SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 13.—Ashur Williams, 45, who escaped from an Ohio insane asylum nine years ago, according to police, was to be questioned here today as a suspect in the murder of 10-year-old Virginia Brooks.

San Diego police charged he was in the vicinity of the Brooks home the day of the killing. Captain Harry Hickok of the state identification bureau characterized him as the "most likely" suspect yet arrested.

Williams was taken into custody last Friday at his shack 18 miles east of San Diego by Los Angeles police who charged him with mistreating a 4½-year-old girl.

Meantime, detectives seeking to solve the Brooks mystery were checking over the movements of Richard Ward, 56, escaped convict, who was arrested Sunday as a suspect in the case.

In another recent murder investigation, Moss E. Garrison, a railroad clerk, today prepared for the trial on a charge that he murdered his sweetheart, Hazel Bradshaw, 13. He was arraigned yesterday.

An EIGHT with twice the Smoothness of Eights at twice its price!

NO CAR in its price class equals The Dictator's 81 horsepower engine for the velvet volume of its power... and you can double the price and still not equal this smooth-running, vibrationless Dictator Eight.

This unmatched smoothness of the lowest priced Studebaker Eight proceeds primarily from the precision of Studebaker engineering which is the sworn enemy of vibration. The crankshaft of The Dictator has nine (9) bearings and is balanced both statically and dynamically. A short stroke contributes to smoothness. A vibration damper of the most effective design is used. Dual carburetion and manifolding, feeding exactly proportional amounts of fuel to each cylinder, eliminate "starving" of the end cylinders and assure even power impulses.

"Rounded" Performance

The Torsigraph, one of the most nearly infallible of automotive laboratory instruments, records accurately the vibration of any rotating shaft. The closer the record chart approaches a true circle, the more nearly perfect the balance of the crankshaft. At the left are shown the Torsigraphic records of The Dictator Eight (9) bearing crankshaft and those of two other eights of double The Dictator's price. Notice the smooth roundness of The Dictator graph contrasted with the irregularity, or "humpiness" of the other two.

Free Wheeling still further accentuates the incredible smoothness of Dictator performance. Silent and smoother gear-shifting with less clutch-pushing... 15% to 20% saved in gasoline and oil... 50% simpler to drive... and so much safer than ordinary motoring that traffic officials of states and cities have testified to the security of Free Wheeling.

Decide on no "new car" of the old order until you have driven this Free Wheeling Dictator Eight.
